This direct-entry Accelerated Dual-Degree Bachelor's to Master of Social Work (3+2) program is an excellent choice for students in the College of Arts and Sciences seeking a rewarding and successful career as a clinical social worker and mental health professional. Through this accelerated dual-degree program, students complete both their bachelor's degree and their Master of Social Work (<http://catalog.qu.edu/graduate-studies/health-sciences/social-work-msw/>) degree in just 5 years. The most common majors for students who are anticipating graduate study in social work are Sociology, Criminal Justice, Justice and Community Engagement, Gerontology, Psychology, and Health, Medicine, and Society. However, this accelerated dual-degree program is open to students in any Arts and Sciences major. This program is separate from the accelerated dual-degree BS in Health Science/MSW (3+2) (<http://catalog.qu.edu/health-sciences/health-science/hss-msw/>) offered by the School of Health Sciences. Students are advised that this accelerated degree will require overloads and summer coursework to complete the bachelor's degree in three years.

Quinnipiac University's MSW program prepares social workers for specialized practice in health and mental health. The curriculum emphasizes interprofessional education to familiarize students with a team-based approach to health and mental health care. The MSW program equips students with clinical social work skills, including counseling, crisis intervention and trauma-informed treatments, as well as the ability to access social welfare and community resources. Students are prepared for social work licensure as part of MSW coursework. Graduates of this MSW program meet eligibility requirements for both the LMSW and the LCSW.

Social work is the major provider of mental health care and one of the fastest-growing occupations in the United States. Graduates of this MSW program enter a broad range of high-demand fields. Hospitals, rehabilitation facilities, mental health clinics, schools, health departments, and social welfare, criminal justice and community organizations rely on social workers to provide health and mental health care to a wide variety of clients. This includes treating persons with trauma, such as veterans with PTSD; people with chronic mental illnesses; and many others. Social workers are also a crucial link between clients and other professionals, ensuring that people receive critical mental health care, advocacy and access to resources.
